

The 99% vs. The 1%

Income inequality has been getting worse in Canada, rising at a faster pace than it has been in the U.S. The inequality is being driven by what's happening at the very top of the income spectrum: The richest of the rich are breaking away from the rest of us.

Average Earned Incomes In 2007 (Individuals)

Canadians' Net Worth 2005

Canada's Richest 1%

Canada's richest 1%
246,000
Canadians

Share of income growth going to richest 1%, 1997-2007

32%

Average Taxes Paid By Canada's Richest 0.01%: Then and Now

Canadian Households' Market Income, 1980-2009

Market incomes are household incomes from all sources before government income supports and income taxes are taken into account.

Between 1980 and 2009 the top 20% saw their household market income increase by 38.4%

+38.4%

...while the middle 20% saw their household market income decrease by 0.3%

-0.3%

...and the bottom 20% saw their household market income decrease by 11.4%.

-11.4%

CEOs and the Rest of Us

In 2010 Canada's 100 best-paid CEOs saw their pay jump

27%

Negotiated wage increases in 2010

1.8%

Canada Vs. Peer Countries: GINI Index 2008

